

The nonprofits nobody talks about

But probably should.

Most giving flows to familiar names

97%

of U.S. nonprofits have no national brand recognition

Name recognition drives donations more than impact. The organizations doing the quietest work often have the smallest digital footprint.

1.7 million organizations, most invisible

33,900+

hidden gems identified by Daanaa

The IRS recognizes 1.7 million 501(c)(3) organizations. The average donor can name fewer than five.

Small does not mean struggling

Many of the healthiest nonprofits by peer financial context score are under $500K in revenue. Lean budgets, strong reserves, direct mission delivery.

A food pantry with no website

One organization in Houston serves 400 families per month, has two years of operating reserves, and has never appeared in a news article. They are on Daanaa.

Public data, made searchable

Daanaa pulls IRS Form 990 data, benchmarks each org against its peers, and surfaces the ones doing strong work with limited visibility.
